- OLD BUSINESS

- o DEVELOPMENT PROJECT

- Longview Business Park

Ken Hash spoke on the commercial access standards in LMC 12.50 that were created loosely to encourage development and creativity in design. Bikes were not addressed and this is an oversight.

There was a discussion on raised sidewalks within parking lots. The standards for that are in the Zoning Code.

Sam Barham, Gibbs & Olson, presented a new design for the Alaska Street. Clark Carroll asked about the location of the trees being on the outside of the sidewalk. Sam Barham spoke on detached versus attached sidewalks. Several examples were brought up for different street and bike lane designs and protection options. A multiuse lane on one side of the street was desired as well as detached sidewalk. Adam Trimble shared the FHA website for examples of bike lane options. Trey Davis stated that as a developer, it would be hard to be the developer asked to make these changes without a standard requirement from the City.

Dave Fine shared his frustration of talking about projects without a master plan. We need to start talking about vision and not specific projects. Clark Carroll asked how we create a standard. Ken Hash listed the process for developing a bike plan and creating new standards. Dave Fine would like to volunteer to work with City staff to help create this and also try to find others to assist him. Ken Hash will follow up on this to get this started.
